

The Inventor claims:

1. A method of using a pump system having a power source, a pump and an electromagnet assembly comprising:
driving the pump the electromagnet assembly; and controlling the power source to drive the electromagnetic assembly with periodic electronic pulses, and monitoring each periodic electronic pulse to determine when a next electronic pulse should occur.